Current Positions of Neighbourhood Action Groups (NAGs)

It was noted that the Safer Neighbourhood Delivery Group (SNDG) was currently in the process of sending out a survey to NAGs, via the Thames Valley Police (TVP) representatives across Milton Keynes. The aim was that the feedback from the survey would provide basic information about the NAGs, the current priorities, how they operate and what was missing. It would also identify where the effective NAGs were and where no NAG had been established.

It was highlighted that TVP representatives, who completed the survey in areas without NAGs, might have a different view point to NAGs and Parish Councils. Parish Councils would then be contacted in the areas without NAGs after the initial responses had been collated.

Milton Keynes Council (MKC) officers would take responsibility to ensure surveys issued to Council officers would be returned promptly.

The Chair of SNDG provided some comments on his current view of NAGs which included :

- NAGs were operated by volunteers
- When chairs change the handover was not effective in every case
- The previous format for NAGs to operate was very formulated
- TVP had stepped back from this approach and this had allowed NAGs to operate more freely
- One approach for NAG operation would not suit all areas
- NAGs needed support, training, particularly for chairs and back office support
- There was a lack of awareness within NAGs as to what resources were available to them
- The survey would highlight some of these issues

There were discussions around the approach for NAGs. There was a consensus that while NAGs should have the same terms of reference it would be open to each one to interpret them according to their area. A common approach to communicating with residents and a process for identifying priorities would be useful. A set of guiding principles for NAGs would be key to having a consistent approach without restricting NAGs.

Current Guidance from National Government on NAGs

It was noted that there was no formal guidance for NAGs. Previous guidance from the Home Office was very rigid and the group which set these no longer existed. With the elections in November for the Police and Crime Commissioner (PCC) it was thought the new Commissioner would provide guidance on how NAGs might operate, in each police area but it could be late 2013 before this was in place. The PCC and the Community Safety Partnership will have a mutual requirement and duty to take due regard to standards and priorities of one another.

It was thought that this would give the Review Group a good opportunity to put steps in place to improve the effectiveness of NAGs across Milton Keynes.
